Questions and answers on the new translation of the Roman Missal

Why do we only say “It is right and just” in the dialogue before the Preface of the Eucharistic Prayer?

Again this translation reflects the precise words of the Latin text. The Preface will then take up this phrase and repeat it as its opening words: “It is truly right and just, our duty and salvation...” To appreciate this connection between the words of the assembly and the Preface, we need to understand the role of the faithful in the Eucharistic Prayer – they are not silent spectators, but must be participants who make their thanksgiving to God. St. John Chrysostom (died 407 ad) writes: “The offering of thanksgiving again is common, for the priest does not give thanks alone but all the people join him in doing so. Once they respond by assenting that it is ‘right and just’, he begins the thanksgiving”. Once the assembly has assented that it is right and just to give thanks, the priest can begin the Eucharistic Prayer because the assembly provide living witness to his words of thanks. Because of the living faith of the assembly, “it is truly right and just” to give thanks to God.

Why is our response now “And with your spirit” in the greetings?

This is an accurate translation of the Latin text and is reflected in other language translations. To understand this translation it is helpful to look at the meaning of this phrase in our tradition:

1. “In the most sacred mysteries themselves (the Mass), the priest prays for the people who in turn pray for him since this is the meaning of the words, ‘And with your spirit’”, writes St. John Chrysostom (died 407 ad).
2. Chrysostom also writes, “If there were no Holy Spirit, there would be neither shepherds nor teachers in the Church ... You acclaimed, ‘And also with your spirit’. You would not have done this unless the Holy Spirit were actually dwelling within him”.
3. “They reply ‘And with your spirit’. In this way they make known to the bishop and to all that not only do others need a blessing and the bishop’s prayer but that the bishop himself also needs the prayer of all... This is why the bishop blesses the people at the ‘peace’ and then receives their blessing as they respond, ‘And with your spirit’”. These words come from Theodore of Mopsuestia (died 428 ad).

Thus when the assembly respond to the words, “The Lord be with you”, they communicate something of mutual importance between the ordained and themselves. They mutually confirm the presence of the Lord who unites them and who is the Supreme Celebrant of the holy mysteries. This is made possible by the gift of the Holy Spirit to the ordained and to the faithful.

Sacramental Update

First Communion:

The first communion program has commenced for children in year 4, or for children who have turned 9 years old and above.

The family group sessions has commenced and will run for 4 weeks. The children will then make their First Communion on 18/19 June 2011 during our normal Mass celebration times.

If you are unsure of what Mass you selected for your child/children to make their First Communion please check the notice board in the Church foyer which will display this. It is essential that all children attend their family group sessions each week to prepare for their First Communion. If at any time you can not attend a session, could you please notify me at the office and I will organise another group for you to attend a catch up.

If you have any questions please do not hesitate to contact me during school hours in the parish office.

I ask the whole parish community of St Nicholas of Myra, to remember these children and their families in prayer during these weeks of preparation. Anne Tucker

Pentecost

11th-12th June

Pentecost is the birth day of the Church.

Truly an occasion for a celebration.

Red is the liturgical colour for this day.

Red recalls the tongues of flame in which the Holy Spirit descended on the first Pentecost.

There has been a long tradition of special celebrations on Pentecost.

This year to celebrate we invite you to.....

'set the community ON FIRE' and wear something RED when you come to Mass.

Entrance Antiphon: Speak out with a voice of joy; let it be heard to the ends of the earth: The Lord has set his people free, alleluia.

First Reading: Acts 8:5-8, 14-17 Philip preaches in a Samaritan town and has great success. Peter and John lay hands on those who have been baptised and the Samaritans receive the Holy Spirit.

Response to the Psalm: Let all the earth cry out to God with joy.

Second Reading: Peter 3:15-18 Peter reminds his readers to reverence Christ in their hearts, to witness to Christ and to be courteous. If it is the will of God that they should suffer, it is better to suffer for what is right than for what is wrong.

Gospel: John 14:15-21 Jesus addresses his disciples, saying that if they love him they must keep his commandments. Jesus says he will be leaving but that he will send the Spirit of truth to be with them.

1st & 2nd Collection

The first collection pays for the priests of the parish and any surplus money from this collection helps fund our retired and sick priests.

The second collection (planned giving envelopes) pays for the running costs of our parish.
